Subject: RE: Chlormequat chloride ACN waiver

Importance: High

Hello everyone:

I've had discussions today with Mike, Meredith, Cynthia, and Lindsay. The plan forward is as follows:

We are not going to issue a 10 day deficiency letter. We are going to issue a 75 day letter this week. The 75 day letter will ask that the registrant provide a schedule for submittal of the ACN study. It is our understanding that this should be submitted first quarter or Jan 2017. I will ask that Tony and/or Lindsay have a conversation with the registrant prior to sending the letter so that they are up to speed on where we stand.

Once we have the study in house we can proceed with the HED assessment. The timing of the study submittal will determine how long we need to renegotiate this action.

If anyone has any questions please let me know. Tony will be in the office later this morning and Cynthia returns tomorrow.

Thanks,
Heather

Hi, all.

Ex. 5 Deliberative Process (DP)

Ex. 5 Deliberative Process (DP)

And also to offer a little background on the reasoning behind the planned January submission of the ACN. That was not planned when the registrant submitted this action. Their original plan was to use the 10x for the import tolerance and then to submit the ACN study in support of their upcoming section 3 registration. A week or so ago when EPA started saying that we might need that study, the registrant offered to submit in January because the study is already in progress.

Thanks,
Lindsay
